Good morning Scott and Jay,

Scott,

Jay has asked me to let you know that we are fine with Food For Thought being allowed to expand the roof.

We have no issues with Jay proceeding to the step of asking the Zoning Board of Appeals for a variance to expand the roof and approval of his plans.

The final approval is of course contingent upon the proposed new roof meeting all current building codes, inspection and sign off by the Town of Ogunquit, proper permits and approvals being obtained and building plans being reviewed and approved by our insurance company and lawyer. Once this is completed our lawyer will review and issue a formal written permission that work may begin. No work may commence before written approval is granted. We understand that the approval if granted runs with the property and not with Food For Thought. Any and all associated costs for this process are to be born entirely by Food For Thought.

We have been very happy and excited by all that Jay and his team have accomplished this year and added to the Ogunquit community and we look forward to working with the town, yourself and the many visitors to ensure an even better 2020.

Please feel to reach out if you have any issues or concerns.

Sincerely,

Richard Bonomo
